Dear Harold,

I hope that your work on Frame Up is proceeding satisfactorily.

I just finished reading R.F.K. Must Die (E.P. Dutton and Co.), a fascinating study by Robert Blair Kaiser.

Apart from its general interest, the book convincingly demonstrates that the procedural deficiencies and worse of Dallas were repeated.

A few nuggets among many.

"Sirhan had a book - - - which - - - had come from - - - The Fair Play For Cuba

Committee.

At the Autopsy of Robert Kennedy were three of the U.S. Government's top pathologists from the Armed Forces ----: Colonel Pierre Finck, Chief of Military Environmental Pathology ---; Charles Stable, U.S. Navy ----.

Roger La Jeunesse, the F.B.I. Agent in Charge of the Sirhan Investigation confided to me: I am not rejecting the Manchurian Candidate aspect of it.

Houghton Brushed aside the puzzle of Edward Van Antwerp --- who told the F.B.I. he never knew Sirhan when, as a matter of fact, he had roomed with Sirhan for five months.

Dallas revisited ----.

The existence of "assassination schools" was confirmed by the testimony of Robin Moore at the Ivery Trial, a relevant portion of which appears in Military Justice Is To Justice as Military Music Is To Music by Robert Sherrill.

Best Wishes,
